FASHIONS AND FADS

Everyone welcomes the net hat for summer wear; hot days on sunny lawns would lose half their charm without it.

Lace veils are edged on both sides with fancy borders and serve for scarfs as well as for enveloping the hat and face.

Stoles and ecclesiastical designs have crept into the toilette quietly, but with evident intention to stay for awhile.

Plaids set in the side or quite around the skirt below the knee suggest the returning fullness of this part of the costume.

The latest belts of heavy gold braids differ from their predecessors in that they are of dull rather than of bright gold.

A bit of hand embroidery is a dainty finish to the tight-fitting shirtwaist sleeve, which is cut pointed over the wrist.

The gumples of flesh-colored tulle, which has received so much comment, has been superseded by a chemise of finest black tulle.

The gray now favored by fashionable women, is really a grayish rose color—having a subtle touch of the rose beneath the gray.

A smart little collar and cuff set consists of sheer batiste and Irish lace edged with tiny hemstitched platings of the batiste.

For summer resort wear a great many girls prefer silk bloomers to petticoats. They are quite as cool and far less cumbersome.

Wide lace is used again to encircle the armholes of a dress, often extending far enough into the dress to shape a lace bolero.

A new correspondence paper has white or colored hemstitched borders like handkerchiefs, and the paper is cross-barred like linen.

Although many skirts have side-treatment, the hips are given as flat treatment as at any time during the Directoire craze.

Hand-embroidered linen dresses, made with Dutch neck and trimmed with real Irish lace are among the newest and most expensive.

Fashion authorities declare that this season the separate waist must match the dress as at any time during the Directoire craze.

MR. ANDREWS WILL DIRECT STOCK CO. IN LOS ANGELES

Something About the Energetic Executive, Musician and Actor Who is Acting Stage Manager at Poli's.

In Harry Andrews, the stage director at the Poli theatre during the past fortnight, the management has been exceedingly fortunate in securing a man of executive ability and artistic appreciation.

Consequent upon the return of Mr. Andrews, the season director, Mr. Andrews will retire and recuperate prior to the opening of his winter engagement.

The Algonquin club, whose privileges he has enjoyed during his sojourn in this city, will regret exceedingly Mr. Andrews' departure.

Aside from his service as a manager, Mr. Andrews has experienced a diversified career as a performer. His initial bow to the public was made several years ago when he appeared as a juvenile prodigy under the auspices of the Frost Club in Buffalo, his specialty being violin solos.

His next appearance was with the McGivney family of instrumentalists in a tour of lyric entertainment; here, too, his violin performances won him prominence.

Yielding to the insistent call of the stage, Mr. Andrews shortly afterward was seen in the Madison Square production of "The Sign of the Cross," which he played with his histrionic association with George Cayvan, DeWolfe Hopper and David Belasco in his first great success.

The expansion of his powers and the desire for new fields to conquer impelled Mr. Andrews to progress westward after his metropolitan adventures.

After his brother, he introduced the first stock company to appear in Denver and subsequently established a similar innovation in Butte, Montana.

While in San Francisco the following season, the famous Alcazar Stock Company, Mr. Andrews was seen as a comedian, to the profit and credit of the organization.

His versatility found ample scope for its demonstration in subsequent appearances with Peter Jackson in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," when he played Marks, the lawyer, an extensive engagement in Kansas City with the Goodrich Stock Company; in the original production of "Janice Meredith" as opposite to Mary Manning; and later with the Rose Stahl in the same piece.

His reputation was further enhanced in Kansas City, New York and at the Bowdoin Square theatre in Boston.

He later efficiently directed various companies in Cleveland, St. Louis, Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore and Boston, terminating the current run at our own Poli's where he is eminently popular with both performers and audiences.

After a brief recreation he will cross the continent and for the ensuing season assume the direction of a stock company at Los Angeles.

THE THEATRES

JACKSON'S

"BILLY, THE KID."

Among the attractions booked to appear at this theatre, during the season, is the successful Western play, "Billy, the Kid," headed by Frank Jackson. Producers of the plays of today, as well as the dramatic authors are keenly alive to the fact that the public who patronize the theatre demand a great deal of realism in all productions. In the writing of melodramas, the authors of recent years have relied to a great extent for their effects upon the mechanics of the stage craftsmen. Nearly everything, from the fire engine to the steam hammer, has at some time or other been utilized. It is therefore refreshing when the announcement is made that "Billy, the Kid," is not a melodrama whose stage mechanics dwarf the actor, but one where the situations are brought about by logical action of the well defined story of the play, and they are said to be of exceptional strength. Novelties of many kinds abound and there is a lot of comedy. "Billy, the Kid" will be the offering at Jackson's Theatre, the first three days of next week with matinees on Tuesday and Wednesday. Seat sale starts tomorrow morning.

POLI'S

One of the events of the stock season at Poli's will be the presentation of that great play, "The Squawman." Without doubt this play is one of the strongest that has been presented this season. It is the play in which Wm. Faversham, that well known favorite, starred, with success, playing to crowded houses everywhere. It will be played in stock for the first time at Poli's.

The last performance of "Lover's Lane" will be given today and tomorrow. Those who have not seen it have missed a treat. It is a play that appeals to all. Each individual part is almost a play in itself.

SEARCHING PARTIES TO RESCUE BODIES.
Baltimore, Aug. 6.—Searching parties worked all night with the hope of recovering the bodies of three of five persons known to have been drowned when the launch "O U Kid," in which the party was riding, struck a submerged spike and Dundell Electric Baltimore County, late yesterday afternoon, throwing the occupants into the Patuxent river. The victims were members of the Huntington Baptist Church which was giving a picnic.

The drowned are: Mrs. Abraham Browne, Marie Hawes, daughter of John L. Hawes, Frank Pierce, 19; William Leach, 13, and Brantley L. Ameland, 10, 10 years old.

OFFICIAL INVESTIGATION OF STREET CAR FATALITY.
(Special from United Press.)
Chicago, Aug. 6.—Officials of the East Chicago and Waukegan Electric Line will start an investigation today in an effort to place the responsibility for the collision between one of their cars and a south-bound Pennsylvania train in which one man was killed and a score injured. There were at least seventy persons on the street car at the time of the accident.

The train struck the street car about the middle throwing it 35 feet and completely demolishing it. Conductor Best was near the front of the car and was instantly killed.

THREE MORE BODIES WASHED ON BEACH.
(Special from United Press.)
Cape Town, Aug. 6.—The bodies of three more members of the crew of the sunken Major were washed up on the beach to-day, making 13 bodies that have been recovered of the 46 who lost their lives in the sinking of the ship and her life boats in Wednesday night's storm off Strang Bay. No word has yet been received from the Warath which is believed to have been lost en route from Durban to Cape Town. The vessel is ten days over due and warships that went in search of her yesterday report no trace of her. The Warath carried 300 passengers and crew.
